EXCLUSIVE OLD FORESTER BOURBON

"WHISKEY ROW" FLIGHT | 45

The Old Forester distillery is America's oldest bourbon distillery. Each of the following bottlings represent specific points in Old Forester's nearly 150 year-old history. Celebrate America's bourbon history one vintage at a time.

1870 Original Batch - as old-school, classic bourbon as you can get. 90 proof. Taste the whiskey of their great-great grandfather.

1897 Bottled-in-Bond - small batch of barrels from one distilling season, in the same year, in a federally bonded warehouse. 100 proof. Depth & complexity.

1920 Prohibition Style - Old Forester was able to continue bottling & selling whiskey during Prohibition; it was one of a select few due to its 'medicinal' properties. 115 proof. Dynamite. Big & assertive.

SKYE

Similar to Islay in its full body and peaty profile, Talisker has a slight spiciness not found in the malts from the more southerly islands. It is the only distillery on the island.

- Talisker 10 | 18

CAMPBELTOWN

Once the whisky capital of Scotland, there are only three distilleries remaining in Campbeltown. The Scotch here is peaty, and has a salty hint and a briny character.

- Springbank 10 | 18

HIGHLAND

In general, Highland malts tend to be more robust, with more pronounced flavors and aroma, and significantly more weight and texture on the palate.

Lowlands is located at the southernmost part of Scotland, and is a flat region with no mountains. Scotch from this region are generally considered as the most light-bodied of the single malts.

ISLAY

Islay scotch is considered to be the smokiest and strongest-flavored (some say it tastes of the sea) of the single malts. The strong flavor is believed to be due to the region's exposure to the high winds and seas of the west coast.
